Appendix I: Mandates of special procedures................................................................. 150
I. Introduction

1. Special procedures are mandated by the Human Rights Council to report to it on their activities (see Appendix I).

2. At the fifteenth annual meeting of special procedures, held in Geneva from 23 to 27 June 2008, mandate holders supported the periodic issuance of a joint communications report to prevent inconsistencies among mandate holders reporting on the same communications to the Council; avoid duplication and rationalize documentation; allow the examination of cross-cutting human rights issues; and ensure that the content of communications and any follow-up would feed into the universal periodic review process more effectively (A/HRC/10/24, para 34-35). In 2009, the sixteenth annual meeting of special procedures mandate holders decided that a joint communications report would be prepared (cf. A/HRC/12/47, para 24-26), with this decision being reconfirmed by the seventeenth annual meeting of special procedures in 2010. Mandate holders decided that the report should contain summaries of communications, and statistical information (A/HRC/15/44, para. 26-27).

3. The Outcome document of the review of the work and functioning of the Human Rights Council calls on the Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights to maintain information on special procedures in a comprehensive and easily accessible manner, and encourages the use of modern information technology to reduce the circulation of paper (A/HRC/RES/16/21, Annex, para. 24, 29 and 60).

4. The report strengthens transparency, efficiency and reduces documentation and related costs. Short summaries of allegations communicated to the respective State or other entity are included in the report, and the communications sent and responses received are accessible electronically through hyperlinks.

5. Communications are reproduced in the language in which they were sent. Replies received in Arabic, Chinese or Russian are included with translations into English, where available.

6. This report covers all urgent appeals and letters of allegations sent by special procedures mandate holders between 1 December 2010 and 31 May 2011 and all replies received between 1 February 2011 and 31 July 2011.

7. The report also includes replies received between 1 February and 31 July 2011, relating to communications sent by special procedures mandate holders before 1 December 2010. Some of these replies supplement information communicated earlier by the respective State.

8. In addition, as a transitional measure, the report also includes all communications sent and replies received by six mandates reporting to the eighteenth session of the Council, since they submitted their last communications reports individually to the fifteenth session of the Council in September 2010. This is to ensure full coverage given that the reporting period of this joint communications report is shorter than earlier reporting periods for individual mandates reporting to September sessions of the Council. The following mandates are concerned: Special Rapporteur on the situation of human rights in Cambodia; Special Rapporteur on the rights of indigenous peoples; Working Group on the use of mercenaries; Special Rapporteur on contemporary forms of slavery; Special Rapporteur on the human right to safe drinking water and sanitation; and Special Rapporteur on the adverse effects of the movement and dumping of toxic and dangerous products and wastes.

9. The present report contains urgent appeals sent by the Working Group on Arbitrary Detention and by the Working Group on Enforced or Involuntary Disappearances and joint urgent appeals sent by them together with other mandates. It does not contain other types of communications issued by these mandates, processed according to their own distinctive procedures, which will continue to be reported exclusively in the annual reports of these two working groups.

10. The names of some alleged victims have been obscured in order to protect their privacy and prevent further victimization. Names of concerned individuals who were subject to victim protection measures are mentioned only when the concerned individual has expressively consented or requested to include his or her name in the public report. In the original communications, the full names of the alleged victims were provided to the Government concerned. Names of alleged perpetrators have systematically been blackened out in State replies to preserve the presumption of their innocence.

11. In preparing the statistics included in this report, uniform reporting periods have been used, reflecting all communications sent over a six-month period, between 1 December 2010 and 31 May 2011, and responses received in relation to these communications until 31 July 2011.

<td>Alleged assassination attempt of the head of the Associação dos Homens do Mar – AHOMAR. According to the information received, on 31 July 2010, Mr Alexandre Anderson de Souza and his wife, Ms. Daize Menezes de Souza, survived an apparent assassination attempt by two armed individuals. Mr de Souza is the head of AHOMAR, an organisation which aims to defend the rights of fisher folk in Rio de Janeiro, in particular those affected by the construction of a gas pipeline for the company Petrobras, which AHOMAR opposed. The alleged assassination attempt in July 2010 against Mr. Anderson de Souza followed the killing on 22 May 2009 of Mr. Paulos Santos Sousa, former Treasurer of AHOMAR. Reportedly, prior to this killing, other members of AHOMAR had received death threats. Furthermore, it was reported that Mr. Anderson de Souza had survived a previous assassination attempt on 1 May 2009.</td>

<td>Alleged torture and ill-treatment by Iraqi security forces. According to the information received, there was extensive abuse of detainees by Iraqi security forces over a five-year period between 2004 and 2009, documented by forces of the United States of America. The information also suggests that such acts were conducted with impunity. Thousands of Iraqi nationals who had been detained by US forces were handed over from US to Iraqi custody between early 2009 and July 2010 under a November 2008 US-Iraq agreement that allegedly contains no provisions for safeguarding the detainees’ physical and mental integrity after the transfer. It is alleged that tens of thousands of detainees had been held by Iraqi authorities without trial.</td>

Alleged discrimination against an LGBTI lobby group. According to the information received, on 16 November 2010 the Jamaica Forum for Lesbians, All-Sexuals and Gays (J-FLAG), was refused permission to hold a meeting regarding LGBTI issues and human rights at the Jamaica Pegasus hotel in Kingston. Reportedly, the Executive Director of J-FLAG was informed via a telephone call from the hotel’s Director of Sales and Marketing that due to the nature of the work carried out by J-FLAG, the Jamaica Pegasus Hotel was unwilling to allow the meeting to take place on its premises. It is alleged that this marked a change in policy on the part of the hotel, which had previously hosted groups including LGBTI persons. J-FLAG was the subject of an earlier communication (see E/CN.4/2005/101/Add.1, para 342).

Supuestos actos de hostigamiento y amenazas. Según las informaciones recibidas, la Sra. Carmen Rosa Arévalo Salas, miembro directriz de la Comisión de Justicia y Paz – Derechos Humanos del Vicariato Apostólico de Iquitos (CJPDHVAI), habría sido objeto de varias amenazas así como de actos de hostigamiento por parte de personas desconocidas. Entre el 13 de julio y 29 de agosto 2010, la Sra. Arévalo Salas habría recibido unas 40 llamadas telefónicas, siendo a través de las cuales amenazada y hostigada por personas desconocidas. El 22 de octubre de 2010, la Sra. Arévalo Salas habría sido hostigada al dirigirse hacia su domicilio tras haber salido de su oficina. La Sra. Arévalo Salas habría realizado varias actividades de defensa de los derechos humanos, y habría denunciado de manera sistemática los supuestos abusos contra la población por parte de funcionarios estatales.

Presunto asesinato del líder de la Cooperativa de Trabajadores Agropecuarios de Blanquicet (COOTRAGROBLAN). Según las informaciones recibidas, el Sr. Óscar Maussa y COOTRAGROBLAN llevaban a cabo acciones de reclamación de tierras usurpadas por grupos paramilitares en Urabá, a través de varios procedimientos judiciales. El 24 de noviembre de 2010, el Sr. Maussa habría sido asesinado en la vereda Cañito del municipio de San Juan Nepomuceno, departamento de Bolívar. Según se informa, al ser descubierto, el cuerpo del Sr. Maussa se encontraba bocabajo y con las manos atadas. Previamente, el 1 de septiembre de 2006, la Comisión Interamericana de Derechos Humanos (CIDH) habría otorgado medidas cautelares a la familia del Sr. Maussa así como las de otros miembros de COOTRAGROBLAN, quienes habrían manifestado temor ante posibles represalias tras no ceder ante las presiones de los paramilitares que habían tomado posesión de sus tierras. El Sr. Maussa fue objeto de una comunicación anterior (ver A/HRC/7/28/Add.1, para 598).

While the film was being screened, a group of ten men wearing masks reportedly attempted to enter the Centre by force; however, they were denied entrance by the organizers of the event including Mr. Timur Lysenko, the coordinator of the transgender programme of Insight. On 28 July 2010, Mr. Barbakadze was reportedly transferred to Tbilisi where he was held in investigative detention. The office of the prosecutor and the court had reportedly rejected Mr. Barbakadze’s release on bail, despite the existing practice of release on bail for charges of economic-related crimes. Mr. Barbakadze’s relatives reportedly had no contact with him. <td>Alleged failure to recognize and respect native customary land rights. According to the information received, the Kayan indigenous community of the Long Teran Kanan village in Tinjar, Miri, Sarawak had been involved in a legal dispute over their land for 12 years. The Miri High Court allegedly ruled in favour of the community on 31 March 2010. One of the defendants, IOI Pelita Plantation Sdn. Bhd., appealed the judgment and had allegedly not respected the court order in the interim, continuing palm oil operations in the community. The village’s crops have reportedly been bulldozed and planted with oil palms, destroying the Kayan people’s traditional livelihoods and threatening their right to food. This case is reportedly emblematic of the over 200 cases before the Sarawak courts relating to indigenous communities’ ability to exercise their native customary rights over their lands, upon which they depend for fishing, hunting or farming, and which are essential to their cultural survival. According to the information received, on 26 March 2011 Swami Agnivesh, member of the People’s Union for Civil Liberties, was carrying out a fact finding mission accompanied by Mr. Ajay Singh and Mr. Rishi Milind when they were attacked by a mob near Dornapal village, Dantewada, in Chattisgarh. The objective of the fact finding mission was to document alleged human rights abuses which had occurred in Tarmetla, Morpalli, Timapurun and the surrounding villages between 11 and 16 March 2011. The aforementioned villages had reportedly been attacked as part of a police operation known as Operation Green Hunt, the objective of which was to remove “Maoists” and Naxalite rebels from various parts of India. It is alleged that the attack on 26 March was staged in order to prevent the aforementioned human rights defenders from documenting crimes reportedly carried out by the police.</td>

The Act allegedly also allows the results of an HIV test to be released to a spouse or sexual partner. The Act’s provision to criminalize HIV transmission on the basis of intent reportedly fails to distinguish between mala fide and negligent transmissions. It is further alleged that the Act could undermine HIV prevention and treatment efforts by discouraging people from getting tested, and could make women more vulnerable to persecution than men as the former could also be charged for HIV transmission to their children. Given the HIV-related stigma and discrimination, it is alleged that criminal sanctions could be directed disproportionately against those who are socially and/or economically marginalized.</td>

Allegedly, an additional 30,000 people in 7 villages in Zamfara State had been identified as being at risk of lead exposure by inhalation or ingestion. Alleged excessive use of force during protests. According to the information received, on 11 April 2011 police fired tear gas at peaceful protestors. In reaction some protestors started throwing stones; subsequently dozens of protestors were injured. On 14 April, security forces allegedly opened fire on peaceful protests in Gulu, killing Mr. Adoni Mugisu, a market vendor, and Mr. Charles Otula, a mechanic. An unidentified person was reportedly lynched by the protestors for wearing a t-shirt with a photograph of the President. On 18 April, police allegedly opened fire and used rubber bullets and teargas on peaceful demonstrators. Since the protest began, a number of opposition leaders had reportedly been arrested, including Mr. Kizza Besigye, Mr. Norbert Mao, opposition members of parliament affiliated to the FDC party and about 20 opposition activists. Those arrested in connection with the protests had been charged with various offences including “inciting violence” and “holding unlawful public assemblies”.

Cette manifestation aurait été violemment dispersée par des policiers armés de bâtons et de matraques. Plusieurs personnes auraient été blessées, et d’autres auraient été arrêtées. Le 22 mai, de nombreuses manifestations, présentées comme pacifiques, auraient eu lieu de manière simultanée dans plusieurs villes, notamment à Casablanca, Fès, Rabat et Tétouan. Ces manifestations, qui exigeraient la fin alléguée de la corruption et une justice sociale, se seraient déroulées à l’appel du Mouvement du 20 Février-Maroc. Dans toutes les villes, les forces de l’ordre auraient dispersé violemment les manifestations et auraient empêché les manifestants de rallier les lieux de rassemblement. Elles auraient également poursuivi et frappé plusieurs manifestants à l’aide de matraque ou en leur donnant des coups de pieds. Plusieurs manifestants auraient également été arrêtés et transférés aux postes de police. A Fès, M. The police accused him of having stolen money and valuables from a house in the village. They asked X to sign a confession and threatened to kill him if he did not. X denied the accusations and refused to sign. A police officer allegedly beat him with a rubber stick, demanding that he sign the confession. When X was released, his mother took him to the &quot;Ignatenco&quot; Children's Hospital in Chisinau, where he was hospitalized for over one week. <td>Allegation that the Armed Forces (Special Powers) Act facilitates impunity. According to the information received, the Armed Forces (Special Powers) Act, 1958 (AFSPA), is applicable in “disturbed areas”, including large parts of the Northeast region of India as well as in Jammu and Kashmir, where a variant of the Act was reportedly brought into force in 1990. The AFSPA reportedly empowers security forces not only to arrest and enter property without warrant but also gives them power to shoot to kill in circumstances where members of the security forces are not necessarily at imminent risk. Allegedly, the Act facilitates impunity by preventing any person from starting legal action against any members of the armed forces for anything done under the Act, or purported to be done under the Act, without permission of the Central Government. According to the information received, there are approximately two to four million migrant workers in Thailand, many of whom are from Myanmar and who entered Thailand without proper documentation. On 21 June 2003, the Governments of Thailand and Myanmar reportedly established a nationality verification scheme in order to enable irregular migrants from Myanmar to register and obtain legal status in Thailand, and to have access to the same wage and other labour benefits as Thai workers. The scheme reportedly caused significant confusion in migrant communities. Allegedly, migrant communities from Myanmar had not been provided with sufficient information about the process, especially in their native languages. Furthermore, migrant workers in Thailand are reportedly often exploited by their employers and deprived of access to mechanisms for the protection of labour rights. La situación de los derechos humanos de las comunidades afectadas por la mina Marlin, en las municipalidades de San Miguel Ixtahuacán y Sipacapa, Departamento de San Marcos. Según la información recibida, el Gobierno habría otorgado una concesión a la empresa canadiense Montana Exploradora, S.A. (subsidiaria de la transnacional canadiense Goldcorp) para extraer y explotar oro y plata. El proyecto, llamado el proyecto mina Marlin, ocupa las municipales de San Miguel Ixtahuacán y Sipacapa, ocupados por pueblos mam y sipacapense. El Gobierno no habría consultado con la población antes de otorgar la concesión. Se alega que las actividades mineras en la zona han creado conflictos dentro de las comunidades afectadas, y que han resultado en efectos negativos sobre el medioambiente. Con la cooperación del Gobierno de Guatemala, el Relator Especial realizó una visita oficial al país para investigar estas alegaciones en junio de 2010. Véase el informe del Relator Especial sobre este caso (A/HRC/18/35.Add.3).

Alleged arrest of human rights defenders. According to the information received, on 24 December 2009 Mr. Muharrem Erbey, lawyer and General Vice-Chairperson of the Human Rights Association (Insan Haklari Dernegi – IHD), was arrested along with several Kurdish opposition members, journalists and civil society activists. The premises of the IHD in Diyarbakir were allegedly raided by the police, and computers and documents including archives on cases of enforced disappearance and torture were confiscated. Mr. Erbey was remanded in custody in the Diyarbakir D Type Prison. On 26 December 2009, he was allegedly charged with “being a member of an illegal organization”. The arrest and the charges against Mr. Erbey may allegedly be linked to his work on the rights of the Kurdish minority.

Alleged negative effects of the nationality verification process on the human rights of migrant workers from Myanmar. An earlier communication relating to this issue was sent on 10 November 2009 (see above, case no THA 10/2009). According to the new information received, on 19 January 2010 the cabinet extended the nationality verification process and the temporary amnesty of permission to stay in the country by two years. For migrants to benefit from the extension, they would need to submit their nationality verification forms by 28 February 2010 and also renew their work permits by that time to be able to stay in the country. The Government would give permission for this group of workers to work temporarily in Thailand, but only on the condition that every worker must complete the nationality verification process before 28 February 2012. Migrant workers from Myanmar would need to return to their country to complete the nationality verification process, and for many, this had created anxiety amid fears of harassment and extortion by Myanmar officials.

 Alleged arrest and detention of a journalist. According to the information received, Mr. Isa Saharkhiz, journalist and human rights activist, was detained at home by eight plainclothes officers on July 4, 2009. Reportedly, no arrest warrant was presented to him, nor was he informed of the reasons for his arrest. He was taken to an unknown location, where he was reportedly tortured and suffered from broken ribs as a result. Although his family and his lawyer tried to obtain information about his place of detention, the Iranian authorities reportedly failed to provide this information for a considerable time. He was reportedly held incommunicado and in solitary confinement for the first 62 days of his detention. Before his arrest, on 20 June 2009, his family home in Tehran had reportedly been raided, and his computer and campaign materials supporting the opposition presidential candidate Mehdi Karroubi were confiscated.

 Alleged blocking of websites and excessive use of force. According to information received, on 7 April 2010 Prime Minister Abhisit Vejjajiva declared a state of emergency in Bangkok and nearby provinces amid escalating anti-government protests spearheaded by the United Front for Democracy against Dictatorship (UDD). On 8 April, Minister Sathit Wongnongtoey reportedly announced that the Government’s Centre for Public Administration in Emergency Situations had successfully blocked the signals of the People’s Television, operated by the UDD. The online news portal “Prachatai” was also allegedly blocked by order of Deputy Prime Minister Suthep Thaugsuban. In addition, 35 other websites supportive of the UDD were reportedly shut down. During clashes on 10 April, live ammunition was allegedly used by security forces against the protesters. At least 21 people were killed, including 4 military, 16 civilians, and over 700 persons were injured. Among those killed was a television cameraman with Reuters, Mr. Hiro Muramoto, 43 years old.

 Alleged arrest and detention of human rights defenders. According to the information received, on 14 March 2010 Mr. Omar Alaaeddin, a Palestinian human rights activist, was beaten and arrested by Israeli soldiers at the Container checkpoint in the West Bank. He was reportedly detained incommunicado in the Israeli Russian Compound jail in Jerusalem and interrogated in relation to his participation in demonstrations in the village of Al Ma’asara and for allegedly having assaulted an Israeli soldier. Mr. Alaaeddin was reportedly beaten and subjected to electro-shocks while in detention. On 21 March, he was brought before a judge who reportedly ordered his release for lack of evidence in relation to the assault of Israeli soldiers. This arrest follows the one of Mr. Mahmoud Zawahre, mayor of Al Ma’asara and a co-organizer of demonstrations there, who was allegedly arrested at the Container checkpoint, beaten and detained by Israeli forces on 2 March.
Alleged imminent executions. According to the information received, Mr. Hossein Khezri was arrested on 31 July 2008 in Kermanshah. On 11 July 2009 he was convicted for moharebeh (enmity against God) and endangering state security, and sentenced to death. During his detention, Mr. Khezri was reportedly subjected to torture. On 11 April 2010, he was reportedly transferred from Oromieh Central Prison to an unknown location. Ms. Zeynab Jalalian was reportedly arrested in the spring of 2008 and held in a Ministry of Intelligence detention facility. In January 2009, she was convicted by the Kermanshah Revolutionary Court for “enmity against God” and was sentenced to death. The sentence was confirmed by the Supreme Court on 26 November 2009. In March 2010, Ms. Jalalian was to Section 209 of Evin Prison, possibly in preparation for her execution. Mr. Khezri and Ms. Jalalian were subjects of an earlier communication (see A/HRC/14/24/Add.1, page 141).

Alleged risk of ill-treatment in relation to possible extradition. According to the information received, Mr. X., an Algerian national, had openly supported the opposition party running for the 2004 presidential elections. He arrived in the U.K. in 2003. On 27 February 2007, he was arrested on charges of money-laundering. On the same day he claimed asylum in the U.K. arguing fear of persecution due to his political opinions. On 22 March 2007, Mr. X. was allegedly sentenced in absentia to life imprisonment by the Criminal Court of Y. in Algeria. In November 2007, the Algerian Government produced the extradition request before U.K. authorities. Mr. X. had reportedly received a number of death threats. In June 2009, the City of Westminster Magistrates’ Court considered Mr. X.’s extradition case and determined that were he to be extradited to Algeria he would face a real risk of being ill-treated. Notwithstanding this, the court indicated it would be satisfied by the diplomatic assurances provided by Algeria. On 5 March 2010, the U.K. Border Agency refused Mr. X.’s asylum claim. On 23 March, Mr. X. lodged an appeal. On 25 March, he was notified that although his asylum appeal was pending, the Secretary of State would be considering that his case be heard by the Special Immigration Appeals Commission (SIAC). The SIAC deals with appeals against decisions made by the Home Office to deport, or exclude, someone from the U.K. on national security grounds, or for other public interest reasons.

Alleged negative impact of the Israeli blockade on the school system in the Gaza Strip. According to the information received, in June 2007 the Israeli Government imposed a blockade on the Gaza Strip, generally only permitting items it defined as humanitarian into Gaza. In June 2010, the Israeli Government announced that it would “ease” the blockade, allowing additional consumable items entry into Gaza. However, construction materials continued to remain banned for import. Due to the blockade, UNRWA had been unable to build a single school in Gaza in over three years. At the same time, the student population in UNRWA schools had risen dramatically. Furthermore, some 217 schools, including 36 UNRWA schools and 60 kindergartens, were reportedly damaged during the Israeli military’s “Operation Cast Lead,” between 28 December 2008 and 19 January 2009. Most schools function on double shift and an estimated 40,000 Palestinian refugee children had been unable to attend UNRWA schools due to lack of space and schools. As of September 2010, UNRWA had received approval from the Government of Israel to proceed with the building of only eight out of the 100 schools required to meet the demand.

Alleged prison sentence and ill-treatment of human rights defender. According to the information received, on 18 August 2010 Mr. Aleksei Sokolov, Head of Pravovaya Osnova, an anti-torture organization, was sentenced on appeal by the Regional Court of Sverdlovsk to three years’ imprisonment for robbery. On 25 August, his family and legal representatives were informed that he had been transferred from Yekaterinburg to Krasnoyarsk, more than 2,000 kilometers away from his family. Allegations received indicate that Mr. Sokolov was beaten by the police during the transfer to Krasnoyarsk. Since January 2010, Mr. Sokolov had suffered attacks by his cell mates, both at the Kamychlov detention centre and at the Soukhoi Log detention centre. Mr. Sokolov was the subject of an earlier communication (see A/HRC/13/22/Add.1, para 1895).

<td>Alleged abuse and exploitation of migrant domestic workers. According to the information received, there are more than 660,000 migrant domestic workers in Kuwait, mostly from Asia and Africa, of whom the majority are women. Once in Kuwait, these workers find themselves vulnerable to abuse in a system that leaves them with almost no effective legal protection. Common complaints of migrant domestic workers are nonpayment of salaries, excessively long working hours without rest, and incidents of physical and sexual abuse. Migrant domestic workers are reportedly often denied adequate food and medical care. Allegedly, employers often confiscate passports of migrant domestic workers and use the passports as a method of control by refusing to return them when workers tried to leave their employers. In addition, it is reported that the legal framework and institutions in Kuwait are inadequate to address these violations of human rights of migrant domestic workers.</td>

United States authorities reportedly had knowledge of the systematic use of torture and other ill-treatment by Coalition, Iraqi and private security officials; and, in most cases, failed to intervene to prevent and/or investigate hundreds of reports of systematic abuse and torture. Allegedly, US forces acting under “fragmentary orders,” “Frago 242” and “Frago 039” were required to make no intervention in cases of abuse and/or torture involving Iraqis if the US troops were not initially involved. The orders also required US forces to report abuse to the US command but not to conduct any further investigation or take any further action to stop abuse or torture unless instructed to do so by higher order. Furthermore, thousands of Iraqi nationals who had been detained by US forces were reportedly handed over from US to Iraqi custody between early 2009 and July 2010 under a November 2008 US-Iraq agreement that contains no provisions for safeguarding the detainees’ physical and mental integrity after the transfer.</td>

C. Communications sent before the period covered by this report, by mandates reporting to the eighteenth session of the Council, and related replies

14. As a transitional measure, given that the reporting period of this joint communications report is shorter than earlier reporting periods for individual mandates reporting to September sessions of the Council, the following communications are included to ensure that all State responses and communications of special procedures mandates reporting to the eighteenth session of the Council are covered since they last reported individually to the fifteenth session. They relate to the following mandates: the Special Rapporteur on the situation of human rights in Cambodia; the Special Rapporteur on the rights of indigenous peoples; the Working Group on the use of mercenaries; the Special Rapporteur on contemporary forms of slavery; the Special Rapporteur on the adverse effects of the movement and dumping of toxic and dangerous products and wastes and the Special Rapporteur on the human right to safe drinking water and sanitation.

15. Covered are State responses received by these mandates before 1 February 2011, but after the cut-off date of their last communications report – usually 15 August 2010 – so that they could not be reflected in respective communication reports submitted to the fifteenth session of the Council in September 2010. The same applies to communications sent by these mandates after the cut-off date of their last communications report - usually 15 June 2010 - and 1 December 2010, the start of the regular reporting period of this joint communications report. Copies of the full text of the communications sent and Government replies received can be accessed from the electronic version of this report available on the website of the Human Rights Council. Some names of individuals or other information has been rendered anonymous or otherwise unidentifiable.
